The speaker dissected the Corrupt Practices act, which he pronounced one of the weakest productions that could emanate from a judicial mind and then went further to say something about Coleman's denial that he had ever sought the vote of a Republican to secure his own nomination.

Judge Curler read an autograph letter from Ben Coleman, signed in ink by the Democratic candidate, boldly urging Republicans to violate their oaths by going to the registration. Judge B. F. Curler, at the meeting ence was convinced of the truthful time ago he made the statement that Local pride enters into the fight to some extent, Causes Insanity of course there is no doubt of the or course there is no doubt of the result in this county, but I am desirous that my majority in this county shall be so big as to assure my majority in this county shall be so big as to assure my nomination beyond a doubt. You will therefore understand that I wish every friend who can consistently do so would register as a Democrat so as to be able to vote for me at the primaries. I know that the counties of my opponent are not the only ones which have local pride; I believe the people of White Pine county have local pride also; if they have, I know they will sen to it that they register and vote right.
